I love that no matter where you stand in the house you feel so close to nature. You get a different perspective of the woods in each window. I love that when you're looking out you might see an elk, a moose, a deer or even if you're really lucky a bear wandering around. I love the fact that my office is upstairs and upstairs is where you see the grand view of Longs Peak and Meeker. You also have a great view of Thorodin from the decks. Inside the house my favorite room is what we call the wood stove room. There's nothing better than when there is snow falling outside to be sitting inside on a toasty couch with the wood burning stove.
